

Joseph LaPierre

I was born in Concord, N. H. I received my formal art education at the New England School of Art and the Boston Museum School of Art.

In the 70's & 80's, I worked as an art director for corporations in California, New Hampshire, New Jersey and Florida. During that time I also performed as a singer songwriter.

" To be an artist is to always be learning."

Working with a palette knife and thick full bodied paints keeps my paintings very loose and bright. This also adds to the cheerful and uplifting feelings of the every day scenes portrayed in my work.

Winning many awards and much critical acclaim, my paintings hang in galleries, private collections, corporate offices and government buildings.
